100 PERSONS ARE INJURED

Dead Found at Almost Every Farm by Relief Workers

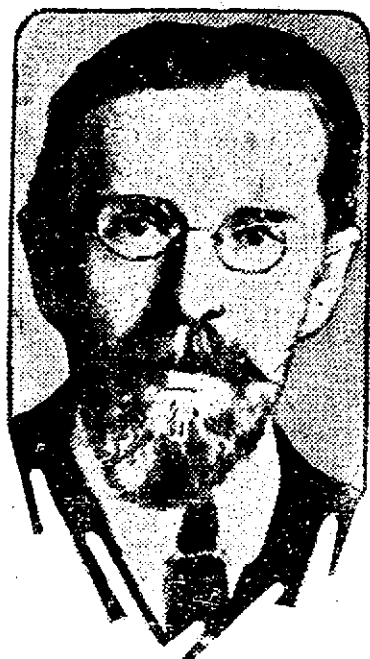

COLORADO CITY, Texas.—(Associated Press) — Eight bodies of persons killed in a tornado near here early this morning have been brought to Colorado City and it was reported that several more bodies are on the way here. Twelve persons have been counted dead and there is no official estimate of the number of persons killed, it was stated.

Persons doing relief work reported dead and injured being found at almost every scattered farm and ranch dwelling for miles southeast of here.

J. H. Green, chairman of Red Cross workers here, said the injured "probably will reach 100 and probably as many as 50 are killed."

Doctors and nurses from a dozen nearby towns have been appealed to and are searching in the devastated area. Only slight damage was done to the town of Colorado City itself.

BURN GARBAGE IS SUTTER'S PLAN

County Healthier Declares in Favor of Incineration

Incineration is the real solution to the garbage problem in Lima, Dr. J. J. Sutter, county health commissioner declared Monday.

Successful disposal of all garbage has been accomplished in Middletown by the installation of an incinerator which operates at comparatively small expense, Dr. Sutter said in commenting on proposed efforts to settle the question of garbage disposal in Lima.

An incinerator can be installed for about $15,000, Dr. Sutter believes, and operation expenses will be in the neighborhood of $5,000 per year. As the Middletown system operates, large cans are distributed to each home at a cost of 10 cents or week. The cans are kept covered at all times and no offensive odor escapes.

By using the incinerator, 15 or 20 tons of garbage will make but four or five wheelbarrow loads of refuse, Dr. Sutter said.

Temporary relief can be secured thru construction of a trench or by plowing, he said. The chief trouble with plowing under, is of course, that state laws require any animals dying from contagious diseases be buried at a depth of at least four feet.

Fish offal must go to a depth of at least two and one-half feet below the ground. With appropriate provisions made for this garbage, however, the city should be able to handle the remainder by plowing for the rest of the year at small expense, Dr. Sutter believes.

"People should forget their concern for the value of garbage as food for hogs and other animals," Dr. Sutter declared. "The sooner there is a desire on the part of everyone to bring about absolute destruction of garbage, the quicker will the problem be cleared up," he added.

LINK WOMAN WITH POISON PEN

Scurrilous Letters Declared Written by Female Hand

NEW YORK.—(Associated Press) — A woman will be named as the suspected writer of the scurrilous letters which George Maxwell, the international music publisher, has been charged with having written in defamations of Mrs. Allan Ryan, Mrs. Albert R. Gallatin and several other socially prominent women in the last ten years, his friends announced today.

FLOURISHING BUSINESS IS SHOWN IN SURVEY

NEW YORK.—American industry is flourishing and now is probably better than it has been in the past decade, John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said today at the opening of the organization's convention. The statement was incorporated in his annual report of a nation-wide survey of industry, in which more than 42,000 manufacturers were consulted.

The survey showed a low percentage of labor disturbances as evidenced by strike of lockouts.

"Generally, conditions are most wholesome," Edgerton reported, "a very great number of those reporting characterizing trade as excellent and placing the prospects for fall in the same category. The number of firms reporting business as poor is only a small fraction of one per cent."

Broadway Likes Preacher-Actor

NEW YORK.—(United Press) — Broadway, which knew Fred Stone for 20 years as an inimitable master of fun, met Fred Stone, evangelist, for the first time last night—and liked him.

Stone, who recently "got religion" while on a snow-bound train in Montana, came on from Detroit to take part in the national vaudeville artists' benefit at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Six thousand persons in the audience saw only the old Fred as the comedian came on and "did his stuff"—a lively buck and wing—he wound up all smiles at the roar of applause.

DEATH OF OHIOAN INVESTIGATED

Farmer's Life Ended When Home Burns Near Mansfield

Wife is Wounded—Woman Tells Story of Affair

MANSFIELD.—(Associated Press) — The condition of Mrs. Samuel A. Nelson, who is suffering with a bullet wound, said by her to have been self-inflicted, following a shooting and fire in their home on a farm in the northern part of Richland county yesterday, in which Nelson lost his life, and their two children, aged five and three years were rescued, was reported "critical" today.

Richland county authorities were conducting an investigation today to determine whether Nelson died by a bullet wound or was burned to death.

According to the story told Acting Coroner R. H. Lebarre by Mrs. Nelson, her husband returned home late Saturday night and a quarrel ensued in which she alleges he threatened to kill her. In a scuffle over the possession of a rifle Nelson was wounded, and a lamp overturned, setting fire to the house.

Mrs. Nelson, according to her story, rushed thru the flames and rescued her two children, but was unable to make a second trip to get her husband on account of the spread of the flames. She told authorities she shot herself after rescuing the children.

The children were not injured.

Gallatin and several other socially prominent women in the last ten years, his friends announced today.

Maxwell's intimates, rallying to his defense, declared that he had long suspected a woman of being the author of the "poison pen" missives and said that they expected him to give her name to District Attorney Banton on his arrival here.

Officers of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, of which Maxwell is president, said that it would have been impossible for Maxwell to write some of the letters whose authorship he was accused of, as he was so ill at the time they were mailed that he could not sign checks of the concern.

BOTKINS TO WAR ON DELINQUENTS

Thousand Threatened With Levy on Personal Property

$114,243 OWING TO COUNTY

County Treasurer Seeks Means of Collecting

More than 1,000 taxpayers in Allen county who owe back personal taxes may have their belongings levied upon to obtain payment, unless they remit the amount due.

Such is the ultimatum announced Monday by County Treasurer Harry E. Botkins, who has launched a drive to bring in $114,243.39 delinquent personal taxes owing to Allen county.

Letters which were sent out May 1 to more than 1,000 individuals have brought some response. The missives, jarred the memories of many who have called at the office and paid, or else sent a check by mail.

Some persons owe personal taxes dating back as far as 1919, Botkins declared. With growing expenses of the county and city to meet, strenuous efforts are being made to drag in every cent that is owing.

The treasurer is empowered by law to levy in cases where the owners of property will not pay taxes.

MEXICAN PARLEY IS OPENED

U. S. Recognition of Southern Republic May Result

WASHINGTON.—(United Press) — The United States government expects recognition of the Obregon government of Mexico to result from the negotiations opening today in Mexico City between commissioners of the two governments.

How long the task will take, officials could not foresee but they counseled patience, because of the delicacy and number of the problems involved. Both sides are eager for an agreement, officials here pointed out and the conference opened under the most favorable auspices in this regard.

An important fact that officials believed augured well for a settlement is that the American commissioners have not been sent to make any particular demand on Mexico. They have instructions to seek satisfactory guarantees and assurances from Mexico for protection of American rights and interests.

Secretary of State Hughes is no longer insisting that Obregon sign a treaty giving these guarantees before recognition is extended or simultaneously with the act of recognition.

Hughes is not concerned with the form of government, but only whether they are satisfactory in extent and purpose.

Obregon has always insisted that he will sign no treaty with the United States until American recognition is extended him. It is believed here that negotiations will overcome the obstacles which heretofore have created an impasse between the two governments.

Reports from Mexico City that the sessions of the commissioners are to be secret caused no surprise in official circles here. Altho the decision was left to the commissioners themselves it has been believed here that the delicacy of the situation required secrecy during the preliminaries.

The principal task of the negotiators is to seek an agreement on the question of confiscatory policies heretofore upheld by Mexico with respect to the property of Americans and other foreigners.

Shooting Affair Investigated by Toledo Police

TOLEDO.—(United Press) — A man's body, a bullet thru the head, was found in an abandoned automobile here today.

Police are investigating the incident's possible connection with the kidnaping of Dennis Griffin, Cleveland patrolman.

The man apparently had been dead 24 hours, police said.

A watch in the dead man's pocket was still running. Remnants of the vicinity in which the car was found said it had been parked there two days.

The body, police said, revealed no marks of identification.

One hundred dollars in bills and some small change were in the dead man's pockets.

The death car was standing opposite Mercy Hospital a mile from the business district of the city.

TRAPPED BY BEJEWELLED WOMEN, FINANCIER SAYS

Mrs. Myrtle B. Hayes, indicted in New York in a forgery case involving the signature of Charles M. Schwab, is shown here at the site of the hotel she proposed to build when ground was broken at Brookline, Mass. The man with the spade is William H. Sellers.

NEW YORK.—(Associated Press) — Details of a number of stock selling schemes in which big names and big sums figured and in which was concerned Mrs. Myrtle Bowman-Hayes, indicted last week on a charge of having forged the name of Charles M. Schwab to a $25,000 note, have been made public by Charles B. Manville, 89, wealthy founder of the Johns-Manville Asbestos concern.

In statements given out, after first denying any connection with Mrs. Hayes, the aged financier told in detail the manner in which, he alleges some of her associates used his name, without his knowledge, as president of the Century Consolidated Oil Company, rubber stamping his signature to literature used in a $2,000,000 stock selling campaign.

He said Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Cora Stetson Butler and Walter B. Clarke had induced him to invest in several enterprises.

"I was stung," Manville said, "stung by a slick crowd." Women wearing expensive gowns, much bewitched and living at the best hotels, were concerned in various schemes which the financier said he was led into after his meeting with Mrs. Hayes.

CARL WRITER IN DEATH CRASH

Dr. H. L. Basinger's Coupe Burns After Hitting Culvert

TWO OTHER AUTOS DAMAGED

Man Injured Internally When Crushed by Horse

One man is dead, two injured, one car was destroyed by fire and two others were damaged in over-Sunday accidents in Allen county.

Carl Writer, 37, of 517 Holly-st., died at City Hospital early Monday, following a motorcycle-automobile crash on the Marion-rd about 6:30 Sunday evening.

Writer was riding east on the Marion-rd, according to information secured by police, and struck an automobile driven by Leo Forche, 207 Dingleline-av, about two miles east of Lima. His leg was broken as he was thrown from the motorcycle. The leg was amputated at City Hospital.

MOTORCYCLE HITS AUTO

It is believed that Writer lost control of his motorcycle while approaching the car and in trying to pass, side-swiped it. Forche told police that Writer's mount was weaving from one side of the road to the other just before the accident. None in the automobile was hurt.

Writer's body will be taken Monday evening to the home of his sister, Mrs. Leonard Diehl, 784 S. Broadway. Funeral arrangements have not been completed. Writer was born at Fairview, August 2, 1885 and was employed as an oil inspector at the Solar Refinery.

In addition to the sister to whose home the body will be taken, he is survived by his father, Joseph C. Writer, 517 Holly-st., and another sister, Mrs. Margaret Chanley, of Toledo.

AUTO IS BURNED

Dr. Harvey L. Basinger, Barbara Ann Court, narrowly escaped death Sunday morning when a coupe he was driving on the Findlay-rd struck a culvert, was fired and practically destroyed.

Dr. Basinger had answered a call from the country and was returning to Lima.

About two miles from the city he met another car. When about 25 feet apart, he said he noticed the other car was being driven directly towards him.

He turned out toward the edge of the road to give the other driver plenty of room, he said, but when the two cars passed they were only a few inches apart. Dr. Basinger said.

The rear wheel dragged off the road for about 20 feet and then Dr. Basinger swung it into the middle of the highway. He then noticed the rear of the car was on fire. Fearing injury from an explosion of gasoline, Dr. Basinger hurried away from the blazing wreck.

A passing motorist brought Dr. Basinger to his home. Insurance partially covers the loss of the car, but two cases containing medical instruments were lost.

Dr. Basinger said the other man must have either been "intoxicated or a leop" as there is plenty of room for three cars to pass on that part of the road. He said he could not get the other car's number and that it did not stop.

Leo Meek, 810 Holly-st., was partially injured when a wheel came off the car in which he was riding on the St. John's-rd, a mile and one-half north of St. Johns about a week Sunday night. His aide was injured. He was taken to his home. Meek's condition is reported serious.

CARS IN COLLISION

Two automobiles were damaged when Paul Logovitz, 714 Prospect-ave, Cleveland, in trying to avoid hitting another car, Sunday morning, turned to the left side of Market-st., his automobile hitting one driven by D. B. Miller, 242 Harrison-av. None was injured.

ASSISTANT COUNTY PROSECUTOR ON TRIAL

3 JURISTS HEAR TRUBEY CASE

Accused Official Reviews Tangle Before Special Court

3 COUNTS IN INDICTMENT

Committee of Bar Association Prosecuting Matter

R. R. Trubey, assistant prosecuting attorney of Allen Co., went on trial Monday before a court composed of three judges, named by the supreme court, to hear disbarment matters against him, in connection with the Russell case.

The greater portion of the morning was consumed in disposing of a motion filed by Ira Longworth, chairman of the court committee to dismiss an answer filed in the case by Trubey.

Statements in the case were then made to the court by both sides. George H. Quail presented the trial statement for the prosecution, and Trubey reviewed the history of the controversy in person. James J. Waddock, third member of the court committee prosecuting the action, was not present.

THREE CHARGES

The court committee seeks Trubey's conviction on the three counts:

Attempting to blackmail H. G. Russell, alleged extortion of $500 from Mrs. Sadie Morris, of Toledo, in connection with the Louis Morris case in 1920, and on a charge of retaining $200 belonging to Lee Clements, former St. Main-st hotel man.

Trubey in his statement before the court declared he would show that his connections with H. G. Russell were in no way illegal and that no threats had been made.

He also told the court that while the $500 given him by Mrs. Morris was originally deposited as surety in the Louis Morris case, that later Mrs. Morris employed him for counsel for her husband.

He pointed to the verdict brought in by a common pleas jury in February, allowing him approximately $266 as a fee, and deciding that he had held on her the $500 to secure his fees.

In the Clements matter, he declared he was supposed to show that he had not, and does not now have money in his possession, which belongs to Clements.

The jurists hearing the case are Judge Shell of Fairfield Co.; Judge Jewell of Delaware Co.; and Judge Worley, of Harrison Co.

More than a dozen witnesses subpoenaed by the court committee, and before the Allen bar association hearing testimony Monday afternoon.

CASE LONG PENDING

Charges against Trubey have been pending since October 6, 1922, when the complaints were filed by H. F. Welby, former member of Congress, in common pleas court and before the Allen bar association. Trubey was exonerated by a court committee in the Russell matter some time after.

December 31, the grievance committee of the bar association filed a report before the body, finding Trubey guilty on the Russell matter and the Morris matter. It was voted to file charges against him.

Article 4, the committee having voted to act, Trubey filed charges in common pleas court against himself.

Judge Fred C. Becker appointed the members of the former grievance committee as a court committee to file and prosecute the charges.

4 LEAP TO DEATH

Girls and Boy Jump in River to Escape Car

DAVENPORT, Ia.—(United Press)—Three girls and at least one boy met death last night by leaping from a street car bridge into the raging current of the Mississippi river, in order to avoid an oncoming trolley car. William Kepke, motorman, reported to authorities today.

One body, that of a girl, has been recovered, but not identified. Kepke said that while he saw only four jump, he believed there were two more boys in the party who may have lost their lives.

Kepke said his car was almost half way across the bridge between the Iowa shore and Campbell's island, a summer resort, when he saw the little party 50 feet away. He could only distinguish three girls and one boy, but he believes there were two other boys.

WARMER TONIGHT; RAIN FORECAST

The weatherman appears to be unable to afford a period of warmth without rain, no matter how hard he tries.

Increasing cloudiness and warmer tonight, with probable showers in extreme southwest portion. Tuesday showers.

Rather a damp forecast, but one which is not surprising at this particular season of the year.

Cold nights, with Old Sol struggling valiantly to eliminate hill during the day, is the weather situation which continues persistently.

While the Lima Independents were unable to pull off a scheduled ball game with the Sidney team at Murphy-st ball park Sunday, due to muddy condition of grounds, diamond contests were staged elsewhere in this territory, despite unfavorable temperature conditions.

Good weather for outdoor work, contractors agreed, and they are going to it with a rush. Most everyone will hope for conditions that will permit Main-st to be sewered and repaved as quickly as possible.

Building operations are going ahead at a feverish pace and the outlook for Lima's advancement during the summer season is rosy.

Extension Sought for Release of Bandits' Prisoners

PEKIN.—(United Press)—China today asked the powers for more time in which to secure release of foreigners held for ransom by bandits.

In applying for extension of an ultimatum delivered by foreign diplomats, demanding that the captives be freed, the Chinese government declared it had offered the bandits full compliance with their terms together with guarantees.

They wish it to be left to their honor to release the captives.

NEW YORK.—Arrest of Nohb Lerner, taken into custody Saturday in connection with the Wall Street explosion of September 1929, in which more than forty persons were killed, has provided the authorities with their first "real clue" in the case, Assistant District Attorney Weller declared today.

The alleged radical, who was declared to have hoisted in Russia where he went with "Big Bill" Haywood, L. W. W. leader, that he had driven the wagon on which the bomb was taken to the financial district, has told the authorities that on September 16, the date of the explosion, he was working in an election booth at a special election to fill the places of radical assemblymen who had been unseated at Albany.

PLOT CHARGED IN MOUNT CASE

Campaign on to Spread Suicide Theory, Prosecutor Says

CONFESSIONS ARE CLAIMED

Propaganda Admitted by Students, Attorney Asserts

CHICAGO.—(United Press).—The grand jury, probing the death of Leighton Mount will be asked also to investigate the death of Louis Aubere, killed in an automobile accident as the alleged sequel to a having episode, the state's attorney's office announced today.

The action will be in view of obtaining manslaughter indictments against those students accused by Roscoe Conklin Fitch, at one time Mount's room mate, of purposely zig-zagging automobiles which collided, causing Aubere's death, John Sharbaro, assistant state's attorney said.

The state's attorney's office said it had obtained confessions from students of Northwestern University involving school officials, that a campaign of campus gossip and anonymous letters has been waged to "hush up" the Mount case and advance a theory of suicide on the campus.

Assistants of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe named James Patterson, star athlete, as one of the students who admitted attempting to spread a suicide theory.

Patterson named George Merrick and Judger Harry Olson as his counselors in the suicide propaganda, it was declared. The two trustees denied the charge. Patterson was said to have declared he had no intention of blocking any probe by the state authorities, but intended that his activities should produce results on the campus only.

Louis Henke, fraternity leader, was declared by Crowe, to have admitted writing an anonymous letter to the state's attorney's office containing "suicide propaganda."

CAMPUS Gossip

Crowe, in asserting there is "no power on earth strong enough to stop this investigation," also announced that he is trying to trace "campus gossip" that state's officials had been "fixed."

Phyllis Trojan, a co-ed friend of Arthur Persinger, a hazing victim, was quoted by state's attorneys as denying knowledge of an anonymous letter written to Mrs. J. L. Mount, Leighton's mother, declaring the body of Leighton would be found at the lake near the Mount home "shortly after Christmas."

The grand jury resumed its probe today. Authorities continued to question Fitch, a Ludington, Mich. youth, who Saturday night repudiated he "knew all about Mount's death, but was sworn to secrecy."

Fitch, according to authorities is "standing pat" on a story that the automobile collision which killed Aubere, was caused by wilful zig-zagging.

SEARCH FOR YEGGS WHO DAMAGE SAFES DIRECTED TOWARD INDIANA CITIES

Yegmen who were unsuccessful in blowing two safes in Van Wert Saturday, are believed to have sought safety in Fort Wayne or some other Indiana city, according to Carl Dunton, Van Wert-co.

Attempts were made to crack strong boxes at the Van Wert post office and the Standard Creamery Co. early Saturday morning. The safes were damaged, but not opened.

One sack of mail was opened and part of the contents carried away. The letters are said to have been ordinary mail, and not likely to contain money.

An investigation of the case was launched Monday by J. F. Cordrey, post office inspector of Lima.

The yegmen are believed to have escaped in a car which was stolen from a garage at the home of A. Mollenkopf.

HONOR INVENTOR

Man Who Made Gas Mask is Given Medal

OMAHA.—(Special).—The government has just awarded a Distinguished Service Medal, not for bravery displayed in killing the enemy, but for tireless work in saving the lives of those of our boys who crossed the sea, that liberty might live.

It was Dr. Karl Connell of Omaha, who, the constant experimenting behind the lines in France, finally perfected a gas mask proof against the most deadly poisons the Germans could loosen in the winds.

His was the mask carried by all doughboys and marines, and the government, in handing over a symbol of its appreciation, admits that the good Dr. Connell's mask accomplished never can be estimated.

The recipient of the honors was a major in the medical corps during the war. He worked night and day in his laboratory. His tools were gases which could snuff out lives as easily as a swatter exterminates a fly.

His product was the only one that could be relied upon completely, it is said.

When the medal was given, military pomp and splendor accompanied it, and General George B. Duncan acted as the nation's spokesman.

It was one of those few occasions in American military splendor when an honor fell to one because of saving—not destroying—life.

NEWS OF PUTNAM-CO

VETERAN EDITOR DIES AT OTTAWA

George D. Kinder Succumbs Sunday to Illness, at 86

FORMER COUNTY TREASURER

Democratic Leader in Putnam-co for Many Years

George D. Kinder, 86, editor and publisher, died at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at his home, Main and Madison, Ottawa.

He was stricken 11 weeks ago by pneumonia, but despite his advanced age, fully recuperated and soon returned to his desk at the office of the Putnam-co Sentinel, where he had been an associate editor. He suffered a relapse, however, about seven weeks ago. He was bedfast practically all the time through the last week.

Kinder held a unique position in the community. He was hailed as its acknowledged authority on many subjects. His service of more than 50 years in the newspaper field gained him a vast acquaintance.

NATIVE OF WARREN-CO.
Kinder was born in Franklin, Warren-co, November 6, 1826. His parents were Captain George and Elizabeth Kinder. On the paternal side, his ancestry is traced to the Netherlands.

After a common school education, he entered the printing business, his first position being publisher of The Hamilton Telegraph. Later he became a journeyman printer. A taste of study at Antioch college, Yellow Springs, fitted him for editorial work.

The Lima County News was established for him at Sandusky in 1862. A few years later he went to Port Clinton and established the Ottawa County News. His next venture was the Greenville Democrat. In the summer of 1867 he was swept by the tide of national reversion from civil war to Bucyrus, where he began the publication of the Putnam.

Establishment of these publications earned him a commanding position as a newspaper "broker." He came to Ottawa early after coming to the Bucyrus Forum under his own name and became editor and general manager of The Putnam-co Sentinel. While a fearless advocate for the principles of the Democratic party, Kinder was known far and wide for being fair to political opponents. He refused to accept political honors.

After his retirement from the Sentinel in 1900, Kinder was chosen to his party as candidate for county treasurer. He was elected and served two terms. From 1900 until two years ago, he was a member of the local board of public affairs and also served on the board of education.

Complete editorial management of the Sentinel was assumed by Kinder in 1911 and he continued in that capacity until 1913, when he retired. However, he retained an advisory position.

He served on the directorate of the Home and Savings association, held membership in the Putnam-co blue lodge, chapter of commandery, was affiliated with various commanderies of Lima and held office as a brother in the Knights of Pythias lodge and the I. O. O. F. lodge.

His contributions to permanent records of northwestern Ohio are widely known. He was the author of a history of Putnam-co.

In 1859 he was married to Miss Elizabeth Gordon, daughter of the late John Gordon. Two children were born to them, a daughter, now Mrs. J. C. Kinder, wife of a Findlay, and a son, now deceased.

Kinder, of Rockford, Ill., was a prominent community leader and a devoted friend of the Putnam-co Sentinel. He was a member of the board of directors of the Putnam-co Sentinel and a member of the board of directors of the Putnam-co Sentinel.

MILLER CITY ROBBERY NETS THIEVES $250

Restaurant of M. J. Koust in Miller City was burglarized early Sunday morning, thieves getting away with $250 worth of cigarettes, cigars and jewelry. The proprietor carried various other side lines in his stock which were not disturbed.

Entrance was gained thru a side door by breaking the glass. Indications are that an arm was inserted in the opening and the key, which had been left in the door, turned.

Auto wheel marks in the soft earth near the restaurant indicated the thieves had turned north.

The job was not reported to the sheriff's office.

HASKELL'S NEW RAIL LINE MAY RESULT IN STATE CAPITAL CHANGE

Additional light has been thrown on the railroad project in which Charles N. Haskell, former Ottawa resident and first governor of Oklahoma, is striving to link Montana and Wyoming with a line that will handle vast shipments of petroleum produced in that section.

Earl D. Crawford, Ottawa, who until recently was located in the territory, received a letter from a friend in which it is stated that Haskell not only intends to build the railroad from Miles City, Montana, to Casper, Wyoming, but will extend it to Rawlins, a Wyoming town about 50 miles to the south.

Grading has been commenced on this section, Crawford's correspondence says. It is proposed to complete the railroad this summer.

The railroad will be known as the Wyoming North & South and is expected to be a factor in development of Casper, situated in the heart of the state and now a city of over 25,000 inhabitants. The addition of the railroad will, it is believed, have considerable bearing on a plan to move the state capital from Cheyenne to Casper.

Completion of the railroad will form a network of steam lines in the section. Spurs will be extended from existing lines to facilitate short hauls. At the southern extremity of the line Haskell's new railroad will form a junction with the U. P. line at Rawlins.

WATER FAMINE AT DELPHOS PLANT

Hinde-Daugh Paper Co., Delphos, temporarily closed its plant Monday, due to a break of a bulkhead of the Miami-Erie canal near the paper mill, Sunday afternoon. The mill received its water supply from the canal at this point. The Clover Leaf Railroad shops, which are also supplied with water from the canal, tapped in on the city water lines, preventing a shut-down of the shops.

A bulkhead erected at this point along the canal, diverts the course of the stream around the old locks and keeps the water at a certain level. Two large feed lines run from the new course of the river to the paper mill and the railroad shops.

Heavy rains of the past few days, caused such a pressure against the wooden dams that it let go Sunday afternoon, leaving nothing but a small ditch of water in place of the canal back to the first lock at Third st., a distance of nearly a mile.

The bed of the specially constructed part of the canal was 1 1/2 feet dry. Canal Foreman William Alexander rushed a force of men to the break and began repairing the dam within an hour after it let go. He stated that it would be replaced by Monday night, unless some unforeseen troubles should delay operations.

About 50 employees were thrown out of work at the paper mill.

SEARCH IS FAILED

Sheriff Terry of Van Wert was in Delphos Monday, searching for Joseph Talboun, 33, who eluded federal officers while enroute to Toledo on an L. C. E. Railway car, after he had received a tip that Talboun had been seen in Lima Saturday morning.

Officers went to the home of his brother, Leon Talboun, in the hope that he might be there in hiding, but no trace of him could be found.

LIQUOR HAULING IS CHARGED

Marion Wells, 28, driver for the Edwards Bros. Trucking Co., Delphos, was ordered to appear in police court at Dayton Monday, in company with Barney Kahn, 25, and Michael Lapa, 19, Detroit Mich., on charges of transporting illicit liquor.

According to Norman Edwards, head of the trucking company, Lapa called him Friday night to bring his truck to a point between Kenon and Dayton to tow a load of furniture broken down. Edwards sent his driver, Wells, to the place named, and Wells hitched his truck on the stalled truck and started toward Dayton, according to Edwards.

While on the Sulphur Spring rd. out of Dayton, the three were taken into custody thru a tip on the part of Deputy Sheriff Ford Louk, motorcycle officer.

Louk found the two trucks parked along the road without lights and investigated. After ordering the trio to a near before a magistrate, he left to summon help.

Upon his return with Jose Chamblain, justice of the peace, and Carl Miller, whom he deputized, three men leaped from one of the trucks and disappeared in the darkness.

Louk gave the men on the other truck wrong information as to the direction not Lima, after they stated that was where they were headed for, and sent them directly into Dayton.

In the meantime, information was sent to C. D. Zellers, Anti-Saloon League officer, and Deputy Sheriff C. M. Brown, who met the truck near the city limits of Dayton and escorted the men to the police station.

Officers claim they found 360 gallons of liquor, covered over with a bed of straw.

GARBAGE DISPOSAL

THERE is little doubt but that Dr. J. J. Sutter, county health commissioner, is right in the premises in launching an attack on the city for its failure to provide means for a proper collection and disposal of garbage. Also, City Manager C. A. Bingham is probably expressing it correctly when he declares the situation is "intolerable."

What Dr. Sutter objects to most, it is understood, is the practice developed by owners of autos and other vehicles who have been carrying garbage out of the city and dumping it along country highways, where it sets up a menace to health in rural communities. "Hit-and-miss" collectors of garbage have been disposing of waste materials in the same manner also, it appears.

It is proposed that proper places be provided for disposition of garbage, but little headway has been made in that direction. Dr. J. B. Poling, city health commissioner, also realizes the seriousness of lack of facilities for garbage disposal. His only hope is thru the city commission. City hall is besieged with complaints concerning improper disposal of offensive wet garbage, or lack of disposal.

Alleys cannot be made depositories of waste without menacing the public health. It cannot be introduced into sewers. The law militates against it being discarded in streams. Since the city has not provided authorized places for the depositing of garbage, the concern expressed by Health Commissioners Sutter and Poling is not unexpected or surprising. They are employed to see to it that the public health is conserved.

Lima is too large a city to have no well planned, effective and legal method of collection and disposal of garbage. "Intolerable" conditions cannot go on forever. Now is the time to call a halt. Something must be done, no matter what the cost.

The health commissioners and the city manager are to hold a conference. The public will expect them to provide a remedy. There must be no failure. Decisive action must be taken, and quickly.

ELKS' CHARITY PLAN

ANNOUNCEMENT made by officers of Lima Lodge of Elks that the fraternal, charitable and philanthropic organization will distribute a fund of $10,000 donated to charity as a result of the May Festival just closed, is no affront to any other organized charity body. Neither is the decision meant to cast aspersion upon any person or body that has heretofore been doing a splendid work for humanity.

The Elks simply seek to increase relief work—to make it more effective, if possible. In addition to setting up its own system of relief work, the Elks' lodge plans to make further additions to its charity fund from time to time, while bringing about distribution at a minimum of cost. No overhead will be required, in addition to the regular lodge expenses, which are fixed and are taken care of independently of the charity work.

One of the first moves to be made is the liquidation of a $2,000 obligation incurred during the recent unemployment period, when the city authorized issuance of work slips, cashed by grocers and which there was no fund to pay. Grocers who accepted these work slips as cash will be reimbursed by the Elks fund at once.

That is only a start. The lodge will organize at once a charity plan that will doubtless function efficiently, altho working independently of other bodies. With a membership near the 2,000 mark, each and every one imbued with the spirit of Americanism, charity and brotherly love, there is little doubt but that the Elks' lodge will have continually and permanently a fund that may be drawn upon at a moment's notice when the cry of distress is heard and aid is required quickly.

Lima Lodge of Elks has always been active in the cause of charity. The latest move fostered and approved by the body is intended to widen the field of effort, secure and distribute more and more aid and at the same time do it unostentatiously, without claim for special credit.

Setting up its own charity distribution by the Elks is a move that deserves commendation.

HERE IS REAL ECONOMY

ECONOMY'S home is in London. The British government announces that, during the 12 months ended March 31, it reduced its bonded debt and floating debt by about 1350 million dollars.

That's the kind of charge account to have on our books. Three and a half years of such economy would wipe out what they borrowed from Uncle Sam.

WHAT IS BLOOD PRESSURE?

One of the phases of the healing journey. And we do not have to open art today is laboratory diagnosis. By which I mean that learning, experience and skill have been temporarily obscured by technical machinery. The introduction of diagnosis by machine has opened an attractive field for commercial genius. Stowed young men have launched into medical practice on the group clinic plan, with an imposing outfit of technical machinery and a routine which costs the customer—we can scarcely say patient any more—a pretty penny. But the customer gets a complete protocol of his case, with all the findings. Sometimes he has his X-ray picture taken in all sorts of outrageous poses, and finds his gears or parts terribly out of place. Or perhaps he discovers that his blood sugar is a decimal point off par or that his Wassermann carries a cross. Then his troubles begin. Somehow the ponderous "reports" don't mean anything to the physician.

The spreading popular interest in blood pressure is one notable effect of this laboratory machine diagnosis. The instrument for measuring arterial pressure costs from twelve to thirty-five dollars—that's what it costs the doctor. Let us try to estimate what it costs his clientele. Everybody who is anybody has blood pressure now, and in some cases high blood pressure. When you turn a faucet and draw water from a municipal water system you know what water pressure means. The blood circulates under a certain pressure, which is maintained by several factors acting together, the pumping of the heart, the resistance offered by the smaller arteries to the flow of blood, the elasticity of the artery wall, the general muscular vigor or tone of the individual, and to a certain degree the quantity of blood in the body. Normally the pressure of the blood in the arteries of a man is sufficient to lift a column of blood or water in a tube to a height greater than the man's own stature, or a column of mercury, which is 13 1/2 times heavier than water, to a height of 2 1/2 to 3 inches. But instead of recording a blood pressure of three inches of mercury we doctors prefer to keep 'em guessing by recording it as 120 millimeters Hg. Hg. means mer-

Cocconut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this cannot possibly injure the hair. Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Multisified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. You can get Multisified coconut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure and ask for "Multisified."

TAKING DOWN THE STOVE

In the good old days with their different ways, The days that have gone before, When they started to sing of the passing spring And the cold winds blew no more, 'Tis time," said Dad, "to get busy, lad; Now summer has come to town And the fire is out, so hustle about And we'll take the old stove down."

Now the pipe was long, and was jointed strong, And it ran thru an upper hall; It was filled with rust and a season's dust, And your face would catch it all. Then you'd have to stop when a length would drop 'Till your sight grew clear again, And mother fussed as she saw the dust, And the words dad used were plain.

But the stove itself, with each door and shelf, Was a task for the stoutest heart. Dad would shout: "Don't lose those bolts and screws When you're taking the thing apart!" Then foot by foot, spilling ashes and soot All over the parlor floor, We'd drag it back to a cupboard black, And the stove was down once more.

Oh, it's little you know of the long ago Who live in the present day, For there's many a chore of the days of yore That never shall come your way. But the old know well, it is truth I tell, We were dust from foot to crown, And like things forlorn we were bruised and torn When we took the old stove down. (Copyright, 1923.)

Mrs. Starr Tells of Her Experience With Tanlac

MRS. E. L. STARR, Mrs. Little E. Starr, residing near Lenexa, Kansas, is another of the thousands who have learned the value of Tanlac as a "spring tonic." "This spring," said Mrs. Starr, "I felt that I needed a tonic, for my appetite had lost its usual keenness, indigestion was giving me a great deal of trouble, and if I ventured out on a shopping trip, or at any other exertion, I soon found myself fagged out. I could rest but little day or night for nervousness and pains. Well, Tanlac got me to eating again, built me up ten pounds in weight and now I feel so healthy and happy I go about my work singing. I will always have a warm corner in my heart for Tanlac." Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

MARY DOESN'T WANT TO BE "LITTLE MARY"

(BY GERTRUDE GILLHAM)

For no other actress has the public so limited screen scope as for Mary Pickford; so dictated that she may or may not do, irrespective of her own desires.

Her recognition of this, and some of her mounting rebellion against it, is evident in her new production, now being filmed, and probably to be called "The Street Singer."

It was selected, after heart-breaking rumination of "Faust," because it offered a compromise between what she feels her admirers demand and what Mary would really like to do.

As a Spanish street waif in a romantic episode of a decadent period, this Pickford essays "growing up" on the screen, discarding the famous and the ingenue gestures for something more vivid and mature, and embracing the new role with complete repudiation, regarding it as a venture. And rather than burn her bridges completely, she will shake her ringlets just once in a familiar scene.

For my life I've wanted to do big things, roles like Marguerite in "Faust," she said, explaining her attitude toward the compromise of "The Street Singer." "But I'm afraid the public wouldn't accept them from me."

But she has established a tradition and standing which I don't want to shatter. People come to see her pictures in a certain mood, based on her past performances. If that expectancy isn't gratified, I'm out of the usual character, they are disappointed.

There you have Mary Pickford's own definition of her slavery. The greatest cinema star is today probably the most dissatisfied of them all. She senses in the public limitations that cramping to monotony and inevitable decline which in her case strikes deeper than the challenge to vanity, as everyone who knows her personally understands.

Her desire to cater to anticipations of her admirers, too, is not prompted wholly by box office considerations, as her intimates also know. Therefore she has been cautious, almost timid, in this venturesome stride of the Spanish picture toward something that will satisfy her own professional ambitions.

"I don't want to exploit my own personality," she emphasized. "I don't want to be Mary Pickford in this and that. In the present picture I shall feel I have failed if I haven't entirely immersed my own personality in that of the Spanish girl. I have tried to be a piece of clay in Mr. Lubitsch's directorial hands; to eliminate all my characteristic gestures and idiosyncrasies."

"I have reached the point where I should have been satisfied in helping produce a big screen success even though I shouldn't appear in it at all. And certainly I'd far rather have a small part that fitted convincingly into a good picture than the biggest part in a poor or mediocre one." And that came with impressive sincerity.

Briefly, "The Street Singer" presents the romantic adventures of a girl who excites the fancy of a mythical and erotic king, outwits him to preserve the life of her sweetheart, and wins happiness from a welter of sordid obstacles thru which she goes unscathed.

Holbrook Blinn plays the King, and among others in the cast are Charles Belcher, Frank Leigh, Mmc. Mathilda Comont, Snitz Edwards, Philippe De Lacey and Donald McAlpin.

SEEKS ACTION ON WAR PRISONERS

Parlet Asks Harding to Silence Clamor for Release

WASHINGTON — (United Press) — A formal statement of his position respecting the pardon of so-called "political prisoners" probably will accompany President Harding's reply to the suggestion of Judge Alton E. Parker, that the administration take steps to silence the clamor for release of such prisoners.

There was no indication from the White House today whether Mr. Harding would act on Judge Parker's suggestion. Parker, in a long letter, suggested that the president commute to ten years the sentence of three political prisoners now serving 20-year sentences. This, Parker pointed out, would make all the remaining political prisoners eligible to parole.

Parker pointed out that it is not generally understood by "many of the good people who have become excited because of the continued incarceration of the men in question, that the prisoners could obtain parole if they would comply with the natural and just requirements that they would not violate the constitution and laws of the United States and of the several states."

The National Civic Federation, Judge Parker said, has endorsed his suggestion after an investigation covering a year, which, convinced the federation that the men were convicted after fair trial, that they were no mitigating circumstances, and their sentences were just.

A persistent effort has been made, said Judge Parker, in his letter, to arouse public opinion to demand unconditional pardon of these prisoners. This has caused great concern to those who respect the administration of justice and who realize that this agitation has tended to create the erroneous impression that these convictions tended to violate the constitutional guarantee of free speech and otherwise curtail civil liberties.

BOARD TO SUBMIT FORMAL PROPOSAL FOR HOSPITAL TO CITY COMMISSIONERS

Trustees of the Lima City Hospital will present formally Monday evening a request that a bond issue proposal of $20,000 be placed on the November ballot by the city commission for the purpose of building a new city hospital.

City commissioners are reported to favor the proposal and to be willing to place the issue on the ballot unless a strong opinion against it develops. Members of the board of trustees said Monday that they had heard no unfavorable comment since the proposition was first broached last Monday.

The formal proposal to be made Monday evening will set forth that the needs of the city have outgrown the present city hospital on E. Market-st. and that the facilities and equipment for caring for patients are inadequate.

2 MAYORS CALLED BEFORE DONAHEY

Lorain, New Philadelphia Executives Face Laxity Charges

COLUMBUS — (United Press) — William F. Graff, mayor of Lorain, and E. N. Fair, mayor of New Philadelphia, Governor Donahey's home town, today were summoned by the governor to appear before him in answer to charges of lax law enforcement.

The mayors, according to Dona-hey's summons, will meet the governor in his executive offices here Thursday morning.

The appearance of Graff and Fair on the "executive carpet" and the conference with Donahey concerning scandal charges against their respective administrations, probably will determine whether the governor will order them to surrender their jobs, appear at an open hearing of the charges lodged against them by "citizens' committees" or merely send them back home with a warning and a rebuke.

The double summons, announced by Donahey today, resulted from weeks of investigation in Lorain and New Philadelphia by agents of the state prohibition department. Citizens' affidavits are on file here, charging Graff with failure to enforce liquor, gambling and other laws. They are supplemented by reports of special investigators.

Fair's case is an outgrowth of a New Philadelphia police scandal and the mayor of the governor's home town is charged in affidavits with failure to enforce discipline in his police department.

Theodore Roberts Has Splendid Role in "Grumpy"

THEODORE ROBERTS, minus clear and mustache, has the leading role in "Grumpy" at the Quilna, the delightful and popular stage play which has been brought to the screen with such a success as even the most optimistic admirers of the famous drama desired but hardly expected. The character of Grumpy stands out as one of the greatest characters ever established in the screen world.

Featured in this William de Mille production with Theodore Roberts are Conrad Nagel and May McAvoy. The heavy role was given to Casson Johnson and the remainder of the roles are played by Bernice Frank.

"It's a Boy" Plann Sunday Audiences at Faurot

THE initial performance Sunday of the Hawkins-Ball Stock Co. may be taken as a criterion. Lima theatre-goers will have much to interest them at the Faurot Opera House during the summer months where the company has opened a long engagement. The policy will be a new production every week, "It's a Boy," having been chosen as the opening play. It is a delightful comedy based in American life as it is today and presents the problems of the first two years in the average young couple's married life.

Florence Lewin and George Whitaker are excellent in the roles of Mr. and Mrs. Blake, the young couple whose aspirations to climb to the pinnacle of success take them to New York. They sell out their interests in the small town to a large firm and start doing the "big thing" on a ten thousand a year salary. They are lost in the whirl and excitement of the metropolis and the first year is one of happiness for the young and pretty wife who craves luxuries. Their son, who was the "idiot" of the fond parents in Carbondale is suddenly neglected in the new environment. But they finally hit the bumps and find themselves in debt, without income and cut off from the friends who cling to them as long as they could furnish the bulk of entertainment and excitement. In "It's a Boy," the couple are shown in love with one another and have courage, so they decide to cast aside all shams of the city, pocket their money, go back to the little home town and begin all over again. Just at this point, the boy's father arrives and gives them the money they were to receive after his death to start another store in Carbondale. This is the first stone on which they plant their feet for another upward climb.

The love affair of Billie and Herbert forms the humorous theme of the story and both parts are well played by Allen MacIntosh and Edna Graham. Edward Seribner and Edna Hill give splendid characterizations of the grandparents of the boys and others in the cast.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart: I AM a girl, 13 years old. I work at a shoe place and have become acquainted with girls there. I like them and have invited some to my home and I have had good times. I know that I should invite them to come, but my home is not nearly so nice as theirs, as my dad doesn't make very big wages and there are four children—the rest all younger than me and none of them working. I know it isn't right for me to ask this, but I want my home, but I can't help it. My mother does the best she can to do things up nice, but it's no use. We don't go on accepting these girls' invitations, so I, without inviting them to my home, but I can't help it. I feel like getting another job where I wouldn't see them.

THAT wouldn't be a very courageous way out, would it? Learn to face your problems instead of running away from them. The sensible thing for you to do is to invite your friends to your home. If they are the right sort and are worth having as friends, they will judge you by your character and personality.

It is, of course, very pleasant to have a home with comfortable and attractive furnishings, but the most important thing about your home, so far as your guests are concerned, is the atmosphere of hospitality which they find there.

Dear Miss Smart: Who pays for the wedding invitations and announcements—the bride or the groom?

ENGAGED: The bride or the bride's family pay for the wedding announcements and invitations.

Dear Miss Smart: I have just come back from visiting a girl friend in a small town. Her mother was so lonely and sad and I want to see much more of her. It is so pleasant that I would like to do something to show her that I appreciate it. I can't afford an expensive gift, but I want to send her something. Would a box of candy be all right?

A box of candy would be very nice and much more suitable than an expensive gift. Write her a "thank you" letter, as well as one to your friend.

Dear Miss Smart: My hair is very dry and I am much bothered by dandruff. Will you please tell me what to use for this?

A. R. The U. S. Public Health Service recommends a mixture of castor oil and grain alcohol both to restore the gloss to the hair and as an antiseptic for dandruff. Use one teaspoon of castor oil to one-fourth pint grain alcohol. Apply to the scalp after the hair has been shampooed, rinsed well and thoroughly dried.

Dear Miss Smart: Please tell me where I can buy the old-fashioned "vinegar beehs." Also how long does it take to make the vinegar?

JANE The old-fashioned vinegar beehs is a form of yeast. The only way you can get them will be thru someone who is still using them. Inquire among your neighbors, perhaps some of them will be able to help you.

FASHIONS FOR JUNE GRADUATE

(BY MARION KALE)

NEW YORK — (Special) — The girl who selected 1923 as the year in which to receive her diploma made a wise selection. Fashion has anticipated her wants this season in an unusually gracious manner.

Not in many seasons have we had such a bewildering collection of beautiful white cotton frocks to select from.

The bouffant organdie with its close bodice and short sleeves is mounted over a satin slip and trimmed with rows of dainty tuckings, rows of lace or perhaps festoons of organdie flowers.

After graduation, when the all-white effect is no longer desired, a slip of pink, blue or even silver cloth may replace the white one, and one of the luscious sashes of purple satin ribbon added to give the dash of color that brings out the white cotton so effectively.

The voice this season are particularly lovely. Some are softly embroidered. Some have lacey stripes, others are very soft and fine and entirely plain and are trimmed with smocking, tucks, pleating or any of the fashionable laces—Valenare usually worn with white or flesh-colored stockings.

Only one type of millinery suits the bouffant frock—the large, wide brimmed model trimmed with flowers, ribbon or even organdie.

The waistline is slightly below normal ordinarily the it is by no means so low as it was last season. The low line is not nearly so attractive on the youthful figure as it is on the more mature.

For commencement, with the graduation track, pumps of white satin or kid are the proper accompaniment, but for other occasions the colored kid pumps, particularly those in delicate tones of lavender, blue or pink are very popular. They are usually worn with white or flesh-colored stockings.

FLOWING GOLD

By REX BEACH

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Gray occupies the most exclusive suite in the most exclusive hotel in Dallas. Having introduced himself to the hotel manager, to the resident of the biggest bank and to the manager of the biggest business, he manages to secure him- self a white room in the leading hotel in the city. In the hotel during room Gray meets an old friend, who is vice president of the biggest jewelry house in Dallas. Gray offers to go to Ranger Briskow, who has struck oil. Ranger Briskow, daughter of Tom Parker, agrees to her home in Dallas, having spent four years in college.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

They argued that a region so poor should ground must of necessity contain values of some sort beneath the surface. But as for other natural resources, they scouted the belief in such. Nevertheless, petroleum was discovered, and among the fraternity that dealt in it Ranger became a word of contradiction and of deep meanings.

The town became a mobilization point, a vast concentration camp for supplies, and amid its feverish activity there was no rest, no Sundays or holidays.

This was about the state of affairs that Calvin Gray found on the morning of his arrival. He and Mallow had managed to secure a Pullman section on the night train from Tal-las. From the first Mallow had laid himself out to be entertaining and helpful, and Gray obligingly permitted him to have his way. When they had finished breakfast, he even allowed his companion to hire an automobile and driver for him. They shook hands finally, the best friends.

The Briskow farm, it appeared, lay about twenty miles out, but twenty miles over oil-field roads proved to be quite a journey. "Gray's driver finally pointed out the Briskow ranch. The house, an unusually story-and-a-half affair, stood at the back of what had once been a cultivated field.

Nobody answered Gray's knock at the front door, so he walked around the house. Over the garden fence, when thick with brambles, he be- held two feminine figures, or rather two faded sunbonnets topping two pairs of shoulders, and as he drew nearer he saw that one woman was bent and slow moving, while the other was a huge creature, wide of hip and deep of bosom, whose bare arms, burnt to a rich golden brown, were like those of a blacksmith, and who wielded her heavy hoe as if it were a toy. She was singing in a thin, nasal, uncultivated voice.

Evidently they were the Briskow help," therefore Gray made his presence known and inquired for the master or mistress of the place. The older woman turned, exposing a shrewd, benevolent face, and after a moment of appraisal said, "I'm the Briskow."

"Indeed!" The visitor smiled his best and announced the nature of his errand.

The women regarded each other silently, their facial expressions hidden beneath their bonnets; then the mother exposed her countenance a second time, and said, "Mister, this is Allegheny, our girl."

Miss Allegheny Briskow lifted her head, nodded shortly and stared for the hoe handle at Gray. Her gaze was one of frank curiosity, and he returned it in kind, for he had never beheld a creature like her.

The mother abandoned her labor, wiped her hands upon her skirt, and said, with genuine hospitality: "Come into the house and rest yourself. The and Buddy'll be home at dinner time."

There were three rooms to the Briskow residence, bedrooms all, with a semi-detached, ramshackle, whitewashed kitchen at the rear and separated from the main house by a narrow "gallery." Into the front chamber, which evidently did service also as a parlor, Mrs. Briskow led the way. By now she was in quite a flutter of excitement. For the guest she drew forth the one rocking chair, a patent contraption, the rockers of which were held upon a sort of track by stout spiral springs. It's seat and back were of cheap carpet material stretched over a lacquered frame, and these she hastily dusted with her apron; then she seated herself upon the edge of the bed and beamed expectantly. The volunteer salesman spread out his dazzling wares upon the patchwork counterpane, then stepped back to observe the effect. Ma Briskow's hands fluttered toward the gems, then reclapsed themselves in her lap; she bent closer and regarded them fixedly. The Juno-like daughter also stared down at the display with fascination.

THE WOMEN TRIED ON ONE PIECE OF JEWELRY AFTER ANOTHER.

"Please examine them. I want you to look them all over," Gray urged. Mrs. Briskow acted upon this invitation only after she had dried her hands, and then with trepidation. Gingerly, reverently she removed a ring from its resting place and held it up to the light. "My! Ain't it spunky?" she gasped, after an ecstatic pause.

"We've never seen nothing—anything, nor been anywhere, yet." It was Mrs. Briskow speaking. "But we're goin'. We're goin' lots of places and we're goin' to see everything with usin', so Pa says. Anyhow, the children is. First off, Pa's goin' to take us to the mountains."

The mother faced the visitor at this announcement and for a moment she appeared to be gazing at a vision, for her wrinkled countenance was glorified.

Altho the mother's emotion was aroused by the price marks on the price tags, Allegheny paid little attention to them and began vainly fitting ring after ring to her fingers. All were too small, however; most of them refused to pass even the first joint, and Gray realized now what Gus Briskow had meant when he wrote for rings "of large sizes."

Eventually the girl found one that slipped into place, and this she regarded with complacent admiration. "This one'll do for me," she declared. "And it's a whopper!"

Gray took her hand in his; as yet it had not been greatly distorted by manual labor, but the nails were dull and cracked and ragged and they were inlaid in deep mourning. "I don't believe you'll like that mounting," he said, gently. "It's what we call a man's ring. This is the kind women usually wear." He held up a thin platinum band of delicate workmanship which Allegheny examined with frank disdain. "Pshaw! I'd bust that the first time I hosed a row of 'aters," she declared. "I got to have things stout, for me."

CHAPTER V

Pa Briskow Buys Diamonds For perhaps half an hour the women tried on one piece of jewelry after another, exclaiming, admiring, arguing, then the mother realized with a start that meal time was near and that the menfolk would soon be home. Leaving Alle to entertain the guest, she hurried out, and the sound of spitting kindling, the clatter of stove lids, the rattling of utensils came from the kitchen.

Gray retired to the patent rocker. Miss Briskow settled herself upon a straight-backed chair and folded her capable hands in her lap; an oppressive silence fell upon the room. Having exhausted the usual commonplace topics in the course of a monologue that induced no reaction whatever, Gray voiced a perfectly natural remark about the wonder of sudden riches. He was, in a way, thinking aloud, of the changes wrought in drab lives like the Briskow's by the discovery of oil. He was surprised when Allegheny responded:

"Ma and me stand it all right, but it's an awful strain on Pa," she said.

"Indeed?"

The girl nodded. "He's got more nutty notions."

Gray endeavored to learn the nature of Pa's recently acquired eccentricities, but Alle was flushing and paling as a result of her sudden excursion into the audible. Eventually she trembled upon the verge of speech once more, then she took another desperate plunge.

"He says folks are going to laugh at us or with us, and—rich people have got to act rich. They got to be elegant." She laughed loudly, abruptly, and the explosive nature of the sound startled her as greatly as it did her hearer. "He's got to get somebody to teach Buddy and me how to behave."

Now that the girl was beginning to lose her painful embarrassment, she showed to somewhat better advantage and no longer impressed him, as bovine, stolid, almost stupid.

"First off, Ma and me are goin' over to Dallas to do some tradin'," the girl was saying. "After that we're goin' to the mountains." "Your mother mentioned mountains."

"Yep. Her and Pa have allus been crazy about mountains, but they never seen 'em. That's how me and Buddy came to be named Allegheny and Ozark. But we never expected to see 'em. The drought burned us out too often."

Gus Briskow was a sandy, angular man; a ring of air holes cut in the crown of his faded felt hat showed a head of hair faded to match the color of his headgear; his greasy overalls were tucked into boots, and a ragged Joseph's coat covered his shirt.

He came directly in to greet his visitor, then said: "I never expected you'd come 'way out here an' bring your plunder with you. Ma says you got a hull gripful o' diamonds."

"I have indeed," Gray pointed to the glittering display still spread out upon the varicolored counterpane.

Briskow approached the bed and gazed curiously, silently down at the treasure, then his face broke into a sunshiny smile. He wiped his hands upon his trousers legs and picked up a ring. But instead of examining the jewel, he looked at the price mark, after which his smile broadened.

Ozark had entered behind his father, and his sister introduced him now. He was a year or two younger than Allegheny, but cost in the same heroic mold.

The elder Briskow spoke first, and it was evident that he feared to betray lack of conversation, for he said, with admirable restraint: "Likely-lookin' lot of trinkets, eh, Bud?"

Bud grunted. After a moment he inquired of Gray, "How much is that hull lot worth, Mister?"

"Close to a hundred thousand dollars,"

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHON TO HER FRIEND, BEATRICE GRIMSHAW

DEAR BEE: Someone has said that everybody tells something to everyone and if these people should get together and the things told them be summed up, it would be found that everyone has told all the secrets of her inmost heart.

Bee, I am the unhappiest woman in all the world. I do not understand why I married. (By the way does anyone ever really understand why one marries?)

Oh yes, I know that Sam is the dearest boy in all the world and I have always known that he drank to excess, but I thought now that prohibition was here, he could not get liquor.

I wrote you about his drinking with his boss. Well that started him, and the next night he did not come home to dinner. All night long I waited for him, and Bee, I suffered the torments of the damned.

The next day about 9 o'clock, when I had just about made up my mind to ring up the office and see if he had gotten there on time, a call came to me from the psychopathic ward of the Good Samaritan Hospital.

Sam had been taken there about 3 o'clock in the morning absolutely paralyzed from drink. He had got into hold of something that was poisonous and, Bee, I think he has lost his sight. At least at the present moment he is totally blind and I am trying to hold my job and keep him in the hospital.

Perhaps I am hard, Bee, but some way I do not feel at all like excusing or pitying Sam. He knew exactly what might happen, but like any other person who dallies with temptation, he thought he was going to skirt around the consequences. Everybody is always ready to apply the law of compensation to everyone else but himself.

And Bee, to make the matter worse, I had a call from Sam's boss this morning. He told me he took Sam out to luncheon especially to tell him that he thought he was drinking too much.

When I asked him if he had not offered Sam a drink at the same time that he gave the warning, without even having the grace to blush, he said, "Why, of course, I always have a cocktail or a highball with my meals, but I can afford to buy good liquor and Sam can't."

Bee, then and there I made up my mind that no man was worth one headache. Mr. White thought he was particularly generous when he said, "I will pay you Sam's salary for the next two weeks. By that time it will be definitely known whether he will recover from his blindness. Of course, if he does not he can't expect to be a pensioner on my bounty all his life as he has only himself to blame for all this trouble."

"He won't expect it, Mr. White," I said. "I hope you will excuse me now as I am leaving the house to go and see my husband at the hospital. I will tell him of your generous offer."

I suppose Leslie and her husband are perfectly happy. I wonder what terrible thing I did to outrage Fate that such an unhappy lot should be sent to me.

Your despairing friend,

SALLY.

First Pictures Of Victories Of Firpo And Willard

Former champion Jack Willard forced Floyd Johnson to surrender after 11 rounds of fighting before 60,000 people in the new Yankee Stadium at New York. The former champion fought valiantly, but the referee called him in the ninth, and in the eleventh he was flat on his face and out as the gong sounded. Johnson's second and referee back called that Johnson could not continue. Picture shows the scene after the last blow, Johnson on the floor of the ring and Willard called the winner.

Argentine's giant loomed as a possible contender for Jack Dempsey's world heavyweight crown when he scored a knockout in the third round of his battle with Jack McAuliffe 2nd, of Detroit, at the new Yankee Stadium, New York. Luis Firpo dropped his opponent with two right uppercuts. Picture shows McAuliffe flat on his face in the middle of the ring, with the bulky South American towering over him, the referee declaring Firpo a winner as 60,000 spectators cheered.

CRITICAL GAMES THIS WEEK IN BIG LEAGUES

Giants Win As Yanks Lose

There may be some changes in the positions of various leading contenders in both the American and National Leagues when the end of this week rolls around. With the four leaders in each league fairly well launched, a number of critical games will be played in the next few days starting with today's contests.

The New York Yankees are meeting with stiff opposition in the home of the Detroit Tigers. With Cobb's men striving to pass Cleveland, now 23 points ahead, for second place, Cleveland continues with the Washington Senators today, while Philadelphia in fourth place, again plays Chicago.

At the National League, but 20 points separate Pittsburgh in third place, from St. Louis in second, while Chicago, fourth, is but 22 points behind the Pirates. The New York Giants continue to hold a big lead, with but six games lost out of 24.

The Yankees were defeated by the Tigers yesterday, 4 to 1. Over 100,000 people saw their home boys win. Larry Haden hit in his 19th consecutive game, pulling the Yankees downed with a fourth inning double that cut two runs over. The White Sox, second on the Philadelphia Athletics at Chicago, 3 to 2. With Green slacker allowing but seven hits and Ken Williams putting over his eighth homer of the season, St. Louis blanked Boston 3 to 0.

There were only two games in the National, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Boston and Philadelphia not being scheduled. The Giants defeated the leading Pittsburgh boys 3 to 0, Hugh Bennett hitting the Pirates down with two slim slugs. Chicago trimmed Brooklyn, 5 to 2.

YESTERYEARS IN WORLD OF SPORT

TEN YEARS AGO, on May 14, 1913, Maurice E. McLoughlin, R. Norris Williams, and Harold Grier, and Raymond D. Little were named as the American team for international lawn tennis games.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO, on May 14, 1898, prizes of $1500 were announced for the big Decoration Day bike race at Cleveland.

WILLARD MAY MEET FIRPO JUNE 30

By HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK—Jack Willard and Luis Firpo, fastest and most important of those who survived the heavyweight carnage Saturday, will be signed today to meet on June 30, at the plans of Tex Rickard co. thru.

The promoters of Floyd Johnson and Jack McAuliffe, have been asked to confer with Rickard and talk terms. Both are said to be willing to meet if the terms are satisfactory and Rickard usually has a satisfying way about him.

Willard, however, may not like the date and if he objects too strenuously and demands a longer rest, Rickard will try to find a later date.

MUST MEET FIRPO

The former heavyweight champion will be forced to meet Firpo if he wants the public to support him in his campaign to get another crack at Jack Dempsey. Willard has satisfied those who doubted that he could come back but his form was not impressive enough to swing opinion to the belief that he is ready for a return bout with the champion. Firpo came out of the carnival as the most impressive of the big contenders. It was not the mere feat of knocking out young McAuliffe, but the artistic manner in which he did it that made Firpo the outstanding man on the card.

Who boxing fans who saw all the natural fighting qualities in the South American were saying today that if Dempsey is going to "take him," he had better waste no time. The longer Jimmy DeForest works with the Argentine giant, the more difficult Dempsey will experience. The charge that DeForest worked in Firpo since he knocked out Bill Brennan is almost remarkable. In the short space of a few weeks, DeForest brought about almost a miraculous improvement in the Senator, and he hasn't had a good start yet. It took DeForest two long hard years to make Dempsey, and he hasn't had Firpo for six months.

FROM CLASSROOM TO BIG LOOP

From schoolmaster to the big loop in a few short years. That sentence sums up the career of "Wild" Matthews, slated to play right field for Connie Mack's Athletics.

A few years back Matthews was a small-town school-teacher, playing baseball as a side issue. Now it's different.

Matthews was with Milwaukee in the American Association last year. He had a big season, and Mack on the lookout for outfielders, decided to take a chance.

The recruit is slight of stature, looks more like a college student than a big leaguer. He bats left-handed, is very fast and moves them up at the plate. He can drag, bump or take a healthy swing, as the occasion demands.

ORLANDO Plant, Florida champion of Italy, showed class when he beat Alfred Gould and Willie Keller in two straight heats of a mile match race in New York Sunday.

INDIANS BEAT WASHINGTON SENATORS

CLEVELAND—Cleveland defeated Washington, 5 to 2, Sunday, taking advantage of Warmouth's wildness in the sixth inning. Clevelander was hit harder than the Washington pitchers, but had better control and was more effective with men on the bases. The score:

AMERICA TO OPEN BANK AT SEA

Will be Established Aboard the Steamer Leviathan

STARTS BUSINESS JULY 4

Launching of First Such Enterprise Reported by Forbes

(BY B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK (Special)—On July 4, America will put to sea its first bank. The line of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of New York, and the opening of a branch bank aboard the Leviathan, which is scheduled to sail on Independence day. This unusual institution recently celebrated its 100th anniversary. Under new president, James H. Perkins, it is making great headway.

The resignation of General George C. Goetz from the Chester Concession company may be significant. This concession does not improve on over acquaintance.

It is comforting to know that treasury and other high ups at Washington now feel that it is not necessary to keep issuing warning over "inflation." The feeling is that we have had enough and that we were running into danger of applying the brakes unduly hard. Textile men, for example, have been becoming quite optimistic. Silk manufacturers were becoming timid. So were a good many merchants.

If only the building mess could be straightened out successfully, if building materials and building wages could be restored to a reasonable level, the whole outlook would be thereby greatly clarified. Unless this is done, the building industry cannot hope to enjoy smooth sailing for very long.

In other directions let us go ahead with energy and confidence and courage.

WHEAT PRICES ON UPWARD SWING

Boost Results from Light Offerings and Heavy Buying

CHICAGO — With offerings light and considerable buying by shorts, wheat market averaged higher during the early dealings. Some of the buying was based on opinions that liquidation had been thorough and that a rally was due. The general run of crop comment was favorable and price gains were easily checked. The opening which ranged from 3-8 decline to a like advance with July 1-15 1-4 and September 1-13 1-2 to 1-13 3-4, was followed by fractional turns all around. Corn and oats reflected the firmness of wheat prices. Besides rural offerings of corn and oats remained very small. After opening unchanged to 3-8 higher, July 7-8 3-8 to 7-8 1-2 the corn market scored slight gains. Oats started unchanged to 1-8 up, July 4-7 8 to 4-7 1-2 and later showed a little additional rise. Provisions had an upward tendency in line with grain and hogs. The wheat close was firm, 1-8 to 1-12 not higher with July 1-15 1-4 to 1-15 5-8 and September 1-13 5-8 to 1-13 3-4. The corn market closed firm at 3-8 to 5-8 not advance, July 7-8 3-8 to 7-8 1-2.

ELIDA MAN FACES OLD WORKHOUSE SENTENCE ON DRUNKENNESS CHARGE

Charles Elder, 32, of Elida, had something to look forward to as he sat in the city prison Monday awaiting arraignment on a charge of intoxication, Tuesday.
